COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Master of Business Administration Program Accelerated MBA

The Program

The College of Business Administration (CBA) at California State University, Long Beach (CSULB) offers the Accelerated MBA Program (AMBA), designed to move students through the MBA curriculum at an accelerated pace which leads to completion of the MBA degree in 13 months. This program is particularly attractive to recent college graduates who want to continue their graduate education, to international students, and anyone who appreciates a fast-paced and dynamic learning environment.

The AMBA program is a fulltime, daytime program where students attend classes Monday through Thursday. The program runs on convenient ten-week quarters which allows for short breaks between sessions and a longer break over the winter holiday. During a typical quarter, students will take three classes, allowing sufficient time for studying and class-related projects. The AMBA program is based on a lock-step cohort design and the group will proceed through the program together. This method of studying and networking in a team learning environment will enhance your experience throughout the entire program.

The AMBA degree at CSULB consists of 48 semester units for those who have an undergraduate degree in a discipline other than Business Administration. For those who have an undergraduate degree in accountancy or business from an AACSB-accredited institution, the MBA degree is 36 units. The 36-unit program consists of seven MBA core courses (21 units), a capstone course (3 units) and four advanced study courses (12 units).

Who We Are

California State University, Long Beach is a large, urban, comprehensive university in the 23-campus California State University system. CSULB is committed to serving the people of California and endeavors to provide academic programs and campus services for both traditional and non-traditional students. The University enrolls students who have graduated in the top third of the State's high school graduating class, those who have completed a community college program, and adults re-entering education. CSULB aims, above all, to graduate students with highly valued degrees, and to prepare them for lifelong learning as well as for success in a variety of professional fields.

During the regular session California State University, Long Beach is as large as a small city. More than 33,000 students, nearly 2,000 faculty and 1,600 professional staff members study and work on campus each week

The College of Business Administration (CBA)

The College of Business Administration (CBA) at CSULB is committed to quality and excellence and is the only California business school to have received the California Prospector Award, the second level of recognition of the Baldrige-based California Awards for Performance Excellence. CBA's state-of-the-art building complete with decision-support laboratories, multi-media capability, and modern lecture halls, opened in 1991.

Business studies at California State University, Long Beach began in 1949 with 24 business students and four faculty members, accounting for one-seventh of the campus population. Business administration was part of the Social Science Division from its inception until 1957, when the division was renamed Division of Business and Social Sciences. In 1958, the two academic areas split and Business Administration became a division in its own right, with Dr. S. Austen Reep as founding dean. By the mid-1960s, the business school had close to 3,800 business students, 29 full-time faculty members, and 13 part-time lecturers. Today, the College of Business Administration is home to nearly 5,000 business majors, including about 400 graduate students and 140 full-time-equivalent faculty and staff.

Accreditation

The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB International) is one of higher education's most prestigious and rigorous accrediting bodies. AACSB International accreditation represents the highest standard of achievement for business schools, worldwide. As of April 2004, AACSB International has accredited 412 U.S. business schools, with the College of Business Administration being one of 267 business schools worldwide with accreditation at both the bachelor's and master's levels.

GMAC

CBA is a member school of the Graduate Management Admission Council (GMAC). Membership is by invitation only. CBA is one of 12 California member schools and one of only two CSU schools to be a member school.
