On Wednesday, October 28, 2009, CSULB College of Health and Human Services and the School of Nursing conducted a groundbreaking ceremony for construction of the new School of Nursing Building. The groundbreaking ceremony celebrated the beginning of the new $5 million building addition which will house a computer lab, three classroom labs, five faculty offices and a conference room that will enable faculty members to have teleconferences. Two of the classrooms can seat 60 students and one of them will seat 30. The computer lab will be able to seat 50 students and allow nursing classes to have two separate sittings for a class instead of the three to four separate sittings they have now. The building should be completed by Summer 2010.
