Normally scholarships are based on scholarship and involvement with activities related to the Department of Journalism. These include (but are not limited to): The Daily Forty-Niner, Dig magazine, the Bateman competition, PRSSA, SPJ or other special or professional activities or projects.

Thus, scholarships usually are awarded to those who have distinguished themselves in and out of the classroom.

Occasionally there are other considerations such as financial need or special interests.

Please attach a short essay, considering the above criteria, and list the factors that most qualify you for a scholarship. Do not exceed one page and don't be shy.
