Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP)

The Doctor of Nursing Practice (DNP) Degree program is a professional degree designed to prepare advanced practice nurses for complex practice, leadership roles in the clinical setting, and teaching roles at California's community colleges and universities. The BSN-DNP program prepares graduates for evidence-based inquiry, leadership, health policy and advocacy, and development of high-level competencies and skills in the following six nurse practitioner clinical specialty areas: Adult Gerontology Primary Care, Adult Gerontology Acute Care, Family Practice, Pediatric Primary Care, and Psychiatric-Mental Health Across the Life Span. The program also prepares the students for national certification examination in specified clinical specialty. The BSN-to-DNP Program is a 72 semester-unit, three-year (full time) program. It consists of 39 units (54.67%) of core courses, 24 units (33.33%) of clinical specialty courses and 9 units (12.5%) of doctoral project. The students will complete 1,000 clinical hours in practicum experience.

The BSN-DNP Degree is available to qualified students who desire advanced studies. The School of Nursing is approved to offer both undergraduate and graduate nursing degrees by the California Board of Registered Nursing and accredited by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education, 1 Dupont Circle, NW Suite 530, Washington DC, 20036-1120, phone: (202) 887-6791.

Culmination

- Completion of the Doctoral Project

The Doctoral Project is developed as the student is enrolled in four Integrative Scholarship courses.

The DNP Project deals with the investigation of practice-related problems, translational research and testing of applicability of established nursing interventions with different patient populations. Examples of doctoral projects include quality improvement, testing of protocols to improve patient care, testing of the applicability of measurement with different patient populations. The ultimate goal of all DNP doctoral projects is to improve patient care to individual, families or populations. The DNP project takes place within the context of the four Integrative Scholarship courses of NRSB 792A, B, C, and D for a total of 9 units.

- Completion of 1000 clinical hours.
