CSULB seeks to recruit faculty who enthusiastically support the University's strong commitment to the academic success of all of our students, including students of color, students with disabilities, students who are first generation to college, veterans, students with diverse socio-economic backgrounds, and students of diverse sexual orientations and gender expressions and identities. CSULB seeks to recruit and retain a diverse workforce as a reflection of our commitment to serve the People of California, to maintain the excellence of the University, and to offer our students a rich variety of expertise, perspectives, and ways of knowing and learning.

The School of Social Work is proud to be an integral part of a university that is designated as a Hispanic Serving Institution and an Asian American and Native Pacific Islander Serving Institution located in a city with a large Cambodian/Cambodian American population in an aspirational context for increasing Black, Indigenous and People of Color enrollment. The mission of the School of Social Work is to educate and graduate diverse, ethical, competent social work students able to think critically and use evidence-based practice approaches to effectively serve culturally diverse, vulnerable individuals, families and communities in a wide variety of practice areas as practitioners, leaders and social justice advocates.

Over the past 20 years, our Social Work faculty has assumed leadership in attracting over $94 million dollars in extramural funds and secured almost $21 million on behalf of local Long Beach human services, community organizations and education settings. Our curriculum prepares graduate students in three specialization areas: child and family well-being, integrated health, and adulthood and aging.

The School engages in collaborative, community-based research that enhances the well-being of vulnerable populations and disadvantaged communities. The School also engages students at both the bachelor and graduate levels in curricula that recognizes the importance of identifying that power and privilege can be a resource. Identifying and recognizing how power and privilege can be leveraged as a resource is important to advocate for and/or empower those who may not have similar power and/or privilege. Our School hopes to improve service delivery systems and contribute to social work knowledge. Our School also provides service to the community and the profession through the development of ongoing relationships with various groups. Those include grassroots community leaders, community-based non-profit organizations, governmental organizations, and foundations.
