

CEHE Campus Research Services

At the Center for Equitable Higher Education (CEHE), we partner with colleges and universities to design and conduct campus-specific research that assesses and evaluates your basic needs programs and student supports. From exploring food, housing, and financial insecurity to evaluating program effectiveness, our research delivers actionable insights that highlight student experiences, demonstrate program impact, and identify opportunities for improvement, helping you make the case for continued investment and stronger student outcomes. Whether you're launching a new initiative or refining existing supports, CEHE gives you the evidence, stories, and strategies to ensure every student has the resources to thrive.

Rashida Crutchfield, Ed.D., MSW

Executive Director

 csulb.edu/cehe

 Rashida.Crutchfield@csulb.edu

Get in Touch

If you are interested in learning more about our services please contact our team and we will be happy to schedule a briefing call.

We offer a full range of services to help your campus better understand student needs and program impact:

- Program Assessment & Evaluation – Examine program effectiveness, identify gaps, and provide recommendations for improvement.
- Student, Practitioner & Administrator Voices – Gather perspectives from all stakeholders to understand experiences, challenges, and successes.
- Data Collection – Develop and disseminate surveys, schedule and facilitate focus groups and interviews with students, staff, and administrators to capture rich, actionable insights.
- Data Analysis & Reporting – Turn raw data into clear findings with practical, evidence-based recommendations.
- Program Development Support – Use research insights to refine existing programs or launch new initiatives that meet students needs.
- Technical Assistance – Develop customized tools to collect the right data to assess process, track progress, and outcomes for students.

Explore our featured collaboration with Rio Hondo College!

