

Long Beach Student Basic Needs Promise

Strengthening basic needs services for Long Beach college students

The Center for Equitable Higher Education (CEHE) at California State University, Long Beach (CSULB), CSULB Basic Needs Program and Long Beach City College's (LBCC) Basic Needs program recently launched a new, collaborative partnership to improve college completion by ensuring that college students in Long Beach have their basic needs met as they pursue their postsecondary goals.

CEHE, CSULB and LBCC have established a foundation of partnership are now ramping up their work to support continuous improvement of their basic needs programs. Specifically, CEHE is helping CSULB and LBCC strengthen their systems for collecting and analyzing data on program participation and outcomes to support policy and practice improvement.

➞ Why support the Long Beach SBN Promise?

- Place-based change effort that builds on on deep and long-standing efforts to meet basic needs of college students in Long Beach
- Multi-sector collaboration including involvement of local housing nonprofits and City leaders
- Replicable model for research-practice partnership that can inform efforts to meet student basic needs at colleges across the state

➞ Get in Touch

If you are interested in learning more about this project please contact our team and we will be happy to schedule a briefing call.

Rashida Crutchfield
Executive Director

🌐 csulb.edu/cehe

✉ Rashida.Crutchfield@csulb.edu

