DISMANTLING DUE PROCESS: US IMMIGRATION COURTS

CPACE 100A

JUSTICE in VIEW

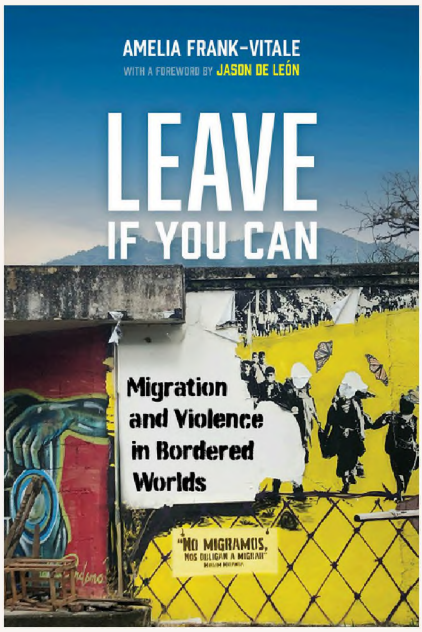

Dismantling Due Process, a new report from Justice in View examining how procedural changes in U.S. immigration courts can prevent asylum seekers from receiving a full hearing on their claims. The report draws on national court data and more than 1,300 hours of courtroom observation. Hear from CSULB students who contributed to this research initiative about what they observed and learned through their fieldwork.

LECTURE: DR AMELIA FRANK-VIALE

CPACE 207

Join anthropologist Dr. Amelia Frank-Vitale (Princeton U) for a lecture based on her book Leave If You Can: Migration and Violence in Bordered Worlds. Drawing on years of research with Honduran migrants, Frank-Vitale examines how deportation, violence, and expanding border controls shape people's lives and journeys. She also explores how migrant caravans have become both a way to travel and a form of protest, challenging familiar explanations of migration and the policies meant to stop it.
