

Equity and Education Studies Minor

Department of Liberal Studies, CSULB

CALIFORNIA STATE UNIVERSITY
LONG BEACH

Liberal Studies

DO YOU HAVE AN INTEREST IN AND/OR PASSION FOR K-12 TEACHING?

ARE YOU CONSIDERING EARNING A TEACHING CREDENTIAL ONE DAY?

The Education Studies minor will allow students from outside of the College of Education to learn about the complexities involved in the field of Education and have the opportunity to complete at least one prerequisite for a chosen credential program for a more seamless transition from undergraduate to post-baccalaureate status. The minor also provides fieldwork opportunities through K-12 classroom observations, for those who want to learn more about the experience and what it would be like.

---

Contact a Liberal Studies Advisor for more info:

Email: CED-LibSt@csulb.edu

or visit the TPAC Office in EED-67

<https://www.csulb.edu/college-of-education/liberal-studies/education-studies-minor>

Program Requirements

The minor in Equity and Education Studies requires fifteen units

---

Two three-unit introductory courses are required for all students in the program:

- L/ST 310: Educational Equity & Justice
  - L/ST 320: Intersectionality in Education
-

Then students select one of the field work courses from their chosen or potential pathway (Multiple subject; Single Subject; or Education Specialist) all of which require field work in schools

---

Students then select six units of special topics courses from existing courses in the university that touch on educational topics

